FURNITURE

WOODEN HEART

For many of us, lockdowns have led to new beginnings. In North Carolina, Mike Newins launched furniture brand Make Nice during the pandemic, and the self-taught designer hopes that his pieces will "elevate their surroundings instead of condescending them." The Make Nice debut collection includes the three-panel Pattern Repeat Room Divider in maple—which, because it's handcrafted to order, has a unique pattern—and the open-frame Basic Structure Sofa.

Floral tribute

Tulips have long been symbols of love and passion, and were the subject of a "tulip mania" market boom in Holland during the 1600s, when they cost more than gold. French designer Pierre Cabrera's Tulip lights take inspiration from the bloom, and have been available as a table or wall lamp for a while. A pendant light has now been added to the collection, with a hand-cut leather shade that evokes the angled leaves of the flower. Available in two sizes, Tulip30 and Tulip40 also use the latest LED lighting for a gentle glow.
